Statement

Joanna works from her garden studio in London, where she designs and hand makes all her pieces - almost exclusively using porcelain, either hand built or thrown. In a world of mass production, she feels it is important to cherish the singular which is why every piece she creates is unique and considered. Her designs tend towards minimalism and simplicity and therefore look at home in most interiors.

After working in the art world for over thirty years, where she was surrounded by beautiful objects on a daily basis, she had a craving to create her own work. Having always been drawn to ceramics, it felt only natural to choose clay as her medium. As a child who grew up in the countryside, the fields and woods of England deeply imbue her work - be it in the forms her pieces take or the decorative elements she uses.

Joanna ran the Cecil Beaton archive at Sotheby's for many years and the photographer's sense of style and designer's eye have been a great inspiration for her ceramics.

As well as selling direct to private clients and interior designers, she has made collections for Matches Fashion, The National Portrait Gallery, The Newt in Somerset, Maison Estelle, Estelle Manor, Sketch, Row on 5 Restaurant and The Edition 94 to name a few. She also has work in The Art Buyer Gallery and JOC Ceramics Gallery.
